Wilmington International judges Malcolm and Barbara Jenkin present Our Journey Through Portraiture. Malcolm has been capturing portraits for many years; while Barbara is a relative newcomer to this genre. Her interest began when she started entering exhibitions and began to see the diverse interpretation of portraits. Barbara and Malcolm have developed their own style which involves the use of hats, wraps and pashminas. Barbara often applies a creative dimension to portraits, while Malcolm tends towards the classical beauty style. In their presentation they will show their development, and discuss images which have been successful in international exhibitions. They will talk about the pros and cons of different fabrics, the use of props and the lighting set ups which they find most successful. Since joining PSA in 2010, Barbara and Malcolm have among other accolades each achieved the level of Grand Master, Silver distinction for having over 7,000 acceptances in PSA-recognized exhibitions, and both of them have been awarded PSA distinctions for successful portfolios.
